

GOING Gluten Free

Gluten is the protein in wheat, rye, oat and barley that cannot be digested when consumed. Gluten sensitivity can affect not only the digestive tract but also any organ or system in the body.

If you are gluten sensitive, eliminating gluten from your diet is the only solution, and it is both effective and essential for addressing symptoms and maintaining health. It is not a diet fad and it can cause a variety of human issues.

At Green Leaves restaurant, we strive to educate our staff on gluten allergies and understand why some of our customers needed to be gluten free. Special color labeling and plates are utilized at our establishment.

To eliminate almost all gluten products from other ingredients, separate utensils, cutting boards, pots, pan and areas for GF production are implemented. Hidden contamination areas are identified such as door handles, contaminated aprons, hand sinks, and pot holders.

In providing GF food on the menu, we do not compromise taste and quality.
